LAWSON SELLS FARM.

Mr. W. L. Lawson sold his farm containing 213 acres to Mr. Lem Teater of Lower Garrard, possession to be given January 1st. The price paid was thought to be cheap, as it is reported to have been $70 an acre. Mr. Lawson is advertising a large stock, crop and implement sale to take place at the farm on the Fall Lick pike on Thursday December 21st. Plenty of burgoo will be served and Capt. A. M. Bourne will be the chief auctioneer.

FISHER PROPERTY SOLD.

The residence advertised to sell at public auction by Mrs. Susan Fisher, was sold last Saturday afternoon, Col. I. M. Dusen being the auctioneer, to Mr. George Smith Sr. for $1,005. This property is considered well worth the price given, as it is in one of the most desirable locations in the city. Mr. Smith recently sold his residence on Danville street to Mr. Joe Kelly and the exchange will be made about January 1st.

WHO WILL BE OUR NEXT MARSHAL?

Since the office of Police and Superintendent of the water plant have been separated, the appointment of these two important positions will be made at the meeting of the city council next Monday night. It is thought that several applicants will be on hand with their petitions and we trust the city fathers will appoint men who will fill each of the positions that will be a credit to the town and a satisfaction to the public.

REGULAR MEETING OF CITY COUNCIL MONDAY NIGHT.

Many Interesting Matters Up For Consideration.

The Mayor having appointed Messrs S. C. Denny, J. W. Elinore and W. F. Champ as a committee to solicit subscriptions to the water works extension fund, they were invited to report the result of their work to the council on next Monday night, it having been arranged for an adjourn meeting for that night.

All claims were passed until regular meeting night in January on account of the necessity of saving the funds on hands to meet past due obligations.

The council passed an ordinance requiring all motor vehicles which are to be left without some one in control for fifteen minutes, to be parked with the rear of the machine to the park on the public square under a penalty of from $1. to $10. fine for a violation. Other regulations looking to the public safety from motor vehicles was ordered.

In executive session it was ordered that the position of Chief of Police and Superintendent of Water Works which has heretofore been one office, was separated to take effect on January 1st.

In the future the duties of Superintendent of water works of the city will be to look after the water works, collect all city taxes and revenues and look after the street construction and repair, at a salary of $60 per month. The Chief of Police at $80 per month, to be required to keep the peace of the city, furnish and pay his own deputy. Mr. O. Huck therefore loses his position of Chief of Police and Superintendent of Water works after January first. The council will select from the applicants on next Monday night persons to fill these two positions. We think it a very wise move on the part of the city fathers to have separated the two places, as it was very difficult to find an officer suited for both positions.

CIRCUIT COURT

Enters Second Week With A Full Docket Ahead.

Judge Hardin convened circuit court last Monday, entering upon the second week of a three weeks term. The Sebastian trial reported in part last week, Sebastian being charged with killing Zack Simpson resulted in a verdict of voluntary manslaughter and he was given an indeterminate sentence in the penitentiary from three to twenty one years. Other commonwealth cases disposed of were:

Commonwealth against Quince Tankersley, unlawful sale of liquor fined $50 and cost. Same against Oz Anderson for breath of peace, fined $20 and cost. Same against same, shooting on highway, fined $100 and costs. Same against McClellan Teater, charged with malicious shooting, but pleaded not guilty, but confessed to shooting in sudden heat and passion, court assessed a fine of $100 and costs. The case against Hynum Vanwinkle charged with malicious shooting, submitted to the court and was given a fine of $50. Same against James and Frank Vanwinkle was dismissed. Alex Mitchell charged with killing George Faulkner at Lowell early last spring, was found not guilty by the jury. Charlie Broadus charged with seduction, drew a fine of $50 and costs. John Sparks charged with destroying public property, was given a fine of $10. Cloris Sparks charged with same offense was dismissed. The case of George W. Conn against the L. and N. railroad, for property damaged by reason of the famous flood at Paint Lick several years ago was brought up Tuesday morning and a number of witnesses for each side are in court. Should the case come to trial, it will probably last during the entire week. The plaintiff in this case is represented by Hon. R. H. Tomlinson and Emmet Puryear, while the interests of the railroad are being looked after by Hon. R. L. Northcott, of Lexington, Ashby Warren of Stanford, J. E. Robinson and L. L. Walker of this city.

EXCHANGE.

The ladies of the Baptist church will have an exchange and bazaar on Saturday December 9th.

CITY RESIDENCE AT AUCTION.

Another nice residence in this city will be sold at public auction next Saturday afternoon at two o'clock. We refer to the residence of Mr. M. House located on Crab Orchard street, the advertisement of which appears in this paper. This is a splendid new property and as Mr. House expects to leave Lancaster the property will be sold at a bargain. Remember the sale is next Saturday.

INDORSES PLAN

For Submission Of Prohibition, Says
Judge Hardin.

Replying to a letter to Gen. W. H. Haldeman, of Louisville, Judge Charles A. Hardin, Chairman of the Democratic State Central and Executive Committees, endorses without reservation the submission of the prohibition amendment to the voters of Kentucky at the next regular session of the state legislature. The letter to General Haldeman follows:

Lancaster, Ky., Nov. 29, 1916—Gen. W. H. Haldeman, editor of The Louisville Times, Louisville, Ky.—Dear Sir: Your courteous letter duly received requesting of me as Chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee my viewpoint and an expression of opinion as to the position assumed by The Times favoring the earliest action possible in the submission of a constitutional amendment relating to prohibition in the State of Kentucky. I am glad of the opportunity of giving my views and opinion as an individual Democrat and citizen of Kentucky. I do not think I should speak as chairman of the State Central Committee or official head of the party. I do not propose to dictate any future action of our party or committees. I agree with The Times that a constitutional amendment submitting the question of State-wide prohibition should be submitted at the "earliest practicable and legal moment." What I mean by legal moment is the time and session authorized by the Constitution of Kentucky, and what I mean by practicable moment is such a time as will give opportunity for a full and deliberative consideration of the subject by the people of Kentucky. It is certain that the people of Kentucky want the question settled, and it is equally certain that they should be given the right and opportunity for so doing. It is a question which has become so acute and all-absorbing in the public mind that all questions seem to be subordinated to it. It breaks into the councils of both of the great parties of the state, demoralizing party programmes and standing in the way of much-needed legislation. It should be settled and settled by a non-partisan vote. If the Legislature of 1918 submitted the question it would at once be taken out of politics and cease to be a political question, and the people of Kentucky, irrespective of party or faction, influenced only by the consideration of the welfare of the State, could freely vote upon the subject. This much I say as a citizen of Kentucky, without reference to my party affiliations.

Speaking as a party man, I would point out the fact that Kentucky in the last election gave, as I understand, 50,000 more votes to our great President than it did in his former race, and the Republican vote in the mountains, was 4,000 less than usual and our majority in the State was 28,000, an unprecedented majority in a presidential year. I believe this was due largely to the policy adopted and adhered to by our campaign chairman, J. Campbell Cantrell, and his committee in not allowing any factional question to arise within party councils and in selecting and organizing party workers all over the State without reference to factions or their position on any question dividing our party. To maintain this status should be the object nearest the heart of every true Democrat. The submission of this question to the people of Kentucky, who are not only intelligent but who are independent and proud and made so by the consciousness of their sovereignty and the ability to assert their rights at the polls, would be essentially Democratic and pre-eminently wise. Justice would then be done and a much-vexed question settled. Our party would be aided in its programme of progress on the lines of social justice and constructive legislation looking to a greater Kentucky. It would give us, let us hope, the opportunity of forgetting our differences and uniting for a common service. It is the only way we can maintain solidarity as a party and work successfully for our great State and nation, which has given us liberty, peace and happy homes.

You ask in your letter for my opinion in construing Article 10 in the rules of the Democratic party as to whether or not the State Central Committee could act for the party in the matter under discussion at this time. I cannot construe Article 10 as giving the committee any right to suggest or shape the thought or policies of the Democrats of the State. I am persuaded that any official action upon the part of the committee along the lines suggested could not be based upon any rights delegated to the committee by the convention creating it. Sincerely yours,

CHARLES A. HARDIN.

SUCCESS IN FARMING.

"To presume that a man can be a successful farmer regardless of previous experience or qualifications is as logical as to say that a man can be a successful lawyer without any legal training or a successful doctor without any knowledge of medicine," asserts W. E. Grimes, assistant professor of farm management in the Kansas State Agricultural college. "Farming requires special training, the same as any other vocation," said Mr. Grimes. "This does not mean that failure is certain to befall the inexperienced; that to be a success a farmer must have a college degree or be an expert accountant. He must, however, be a good business manager. "The reason is plain. The introduction of improved machinery necessitates an outlay of capital. This machinery is indispensable, but it is expensive. To justify the expense the farmer must have sufficient acreage. It takes practically as large an equipment to farm forty acres as it does to farm 100. This makes farming a business undertaking which requires business ability to a high degree."

SOWING RYE.

The Soil Should Be Rich and the Seed Clean.

Although rye will grow on very poor soils, large yields cannot be secured from soils not of good fertility. The soil should not be exceedingly rich, however, for grain production, and not much nitrogenous fertilizer should be used. Stable manure is the best fertilizer. Some phosphate should be used also. Seed should be thoroughly cleaned. They also should be tested carefully, as rye loses its germinating power more rapidly than most other cereals. The rate of seeding should depend on the showing from the germinating tests. When intended for grain production, sowings should be made about Sept. 1 in the northernmost parts of the country and should range from this date to the latter part of November in the extreme south. Rye may be sown from one to two weeks later than wheat. If the rye is to be used for pasture it should be sown from two weeks to a month earlier than when sown for grain crops. On fertile land the fall sowing may be later than on poor land. Spring rye may be sown as early as spring oats or as soon as the soil becomes warm and dry enough to be worked.

Beginning in northern Florida about the middle of May, rye ripens approximately a day later for each fifteen miles to the north, generally a few days earlier than wheat. Like wheat, it is cut ordinarily with a binder. In some sections, however, especially near large cities, there is a remunerative demand for rye straw for use in bedding horses, wrapping nursery stock, stuffing horse collars, etc. Under such conditions if the straw is especially long it may be necessary to use a self rake reaper. When the straw is to be kept in good condition a special thrasher also is used in many instances.

Lime Not to Be Used During the Winter

While it is better to use lime on acid soils at any time of the year than not to apply any, soil specialists at the Ohio experiment station recommend that this material be used after plowing for some cultivated spring crop. The lime can then perform its full function in promoting the growth of the bacteria that grow on clover roots.

These countless bacteria, so helpful to clover crops, work only in the dark and require both water and air for their existence. Also they can live only in soils either naturally or artificially supplied with lime.

Lime spread on the surface and not stirred into the soil can help the bacteria but little. They would die there for lack of moisture, and the lime would be dissolved and carried into the soil only after a long time. Lime plowed under is also out of reach of the bacteria, which live chiefly in the upper three or four inches of soil where the air is plentiful; hence, applying lime after plowing in the spring and mixing it by cultivation into the soil during the summer make conditions most favorable for the clover crops later.

Weevil in Beans and Grain.

This insect pest proves very injurious, but is easy to destroy. The beans should be put into a barrel or box which can be made air tight. Put a deep dish on top of the beans inside the barrel and pour into this dish a quantity of bisulphide of carbon. When exposed to the air this liquid forms a gas which is heavier than air and which will work down into the barrel all through the beans. This gas is poisonous and means the death of all breathing things, and, working through the beans in this way, it will kill the weevils. Care must be taken to cover box or barrel with a blanket or other cover which will exclude the air. The fumes arising from the bisulphide will explode or take fire if a flame is brought too close to them. Consequently care should be taken to keep a lantern or a candle or matches away from these fumes. Care should also be taken not to breathe these fumes, as they might prove as deadly to humans as they are to the bean weevil—turn New Yorker.

Wildest Tobacco Market Ever Known At Danville.

Enthusiasm Rampant when the Floor Average for the Opening Day Monday was $16.52 with 90,000 Pounds Sold.

Monday was a big day on the Danville breaks and tobacco growers are enthusiastic over the splendid prices which were realized at the opening sales. It is estimated that fully a thousand farmers were present and all were greatly pleased with the prospects for record breaking prices for their tobacco. They were given polite and courteous treatment at the Danville houses, and realize that their every interest is looked after with the utmost care and faithfulness on the part of the management. Bring your tobacco to Danville when it is ready. We do a strictly commission business. Free stables and no rejection fee.

Appreciating your past patronage, we hope you will see your way clear to bring us your tobacco, guaranteeing you the highest market prices, absolutely accurate weights and an all around square deal.

Mrs. H. Clay Sutton, who is making a most capable and conscientious President, asks for a prompt and full attendance at each and every meeting of the club. The meetings begin promptly at 2:30.

There has been a splendid fall for setting out trees, and many have taken advantage of it. It is not too late to go on with the good work. Remember that the plant a tree:
Plants, in sap and heart and wood,
A love of home and loyalty
And far-east thought of civic good—
Is blessings on the neighborhood,
In the hollow of his hand
Holds all the growth of all our land—
Nation's growth from sea to sea
Lies in his heart who plants a tree.

Just how the flying achievements of both Law, appealed to the minds of boys and girls was told in fifty or more letters she received recently from the pupils of Grade 8-A of Public School 83, Brooklyn. Bubbling over with childish enthusiasm and admiration, the writers said varied compliments to the young woman who broke the American non-stop cross country record on her flight from Chicago to New York.

Most of the letters had pasted at their beginnings pictures of Miss Law, clipped from newspapers. Several had pictures of the writer at the bottom. Nearly all the writers, boys and girls, expressed ardent desire to fly. The girls were all proud that the holder of the new record was a woman. "You have encouraged many and many a girl to try to do and to dare," wrote several girls.

Who says women will not exercise the rights of suffrage when granted them. Read what the Danville Messenger has to say in regard to their recent school bond election:

"For the first time in history of elections, the women of Danville became interested on Saturday and 416 of them went to the polls and cast their votes in the school bond election. It was quite interesting to watch them and hear the many questions asked of the election officers at the polls.

A feature of the election was the parade given by the pupils of the two schools. Each grade, headed by the teachers in that particular department, marched through Main street, and when the 640 children passed down the street it made a very imposing picture. "I didn't know there were that many children in the whole county," remarked one prominent citizen. "Teddy Roosevelt should see that bunch," said another. It was a good-looking bunch and their presence spurred many a man voting for the bonds."

They Let Him Sleep Soundly

"Since taking Foley Kidney Pills I believe I am entirely cured and I sleep soundly all night."—H. T. Strayhorn.
Take two of Foley Kidney Pills with a glass of pure water after each meal and at bedtime. A quick and easy way to put a stop to your getting up time after time during the night.
Foley Kidney Pills also stop pain in back and sides, headaches, stomach troubles, disturbed heart action, and aching joints, and rheumatic pains due to kidney and bladder ailments.

Chickensville, Ga., H. T. No. 2. Mr. H. T. Strayhorn says: "For ten years I've been unable to sleep all night without getting up. Sometimes only a few minutes after going to bed I'd have to get up, and I tried everything I heard of for the trouble. Last year I tried Foley Kidney Pills and after taking one bottle I believe I am entirely cured and I sleep soundly all night."

You recollect the Christmas horn
For which we used to seek,
Tn-day its note sounds all forlorn,
'Tis but a feeble squeak.
The kids demand on Christmas morn
An instrument worth while,
And Johnny wants an auto horn
That can be heard a mile.

POVERTY

One-crop farming certainly leads to poverty sooner or later. You must learn diversified farming. Do not think because you have tobacco barns, that they must be filled with tobacco each year, thereby cultivating parts of your land in this crop when the condition of the soil is not suited. Some young cattle or sheep will use that barn to profit.
Stock raising, one year with another, is given up to be the sure plan to success.

Use our lumber yard in changing your building to convenient stock barns, sell from your land only the fat produced and see your farm improve in fertility.
Use a little Orchard Grass in seeding and see if we know what we are talking about.

FEED A MIXED RATION AND SEE IF THE STOCK DO NOT THRIVE BETTER WITH LESS FEED, THAN A ONE FEED RATION.

We used to think that a farmer who worked hard was a success, but the day has come when the farmer who does not work brain with the muscle is a failure.

We carry a line of farmers needs that are sold at the right price. Our stock of Lumber, Lime, Brick, Sand, Cement, Screenings, Doors, Windows, Fence Posts, Furniture, Feed Field Seeds, Builders Hardware, Fire Brick, Backs, Grates and Mantles are bound to please you.

We will add, in due time, some useful articles for your Xmas Gifts and want you to call and look them over.

This is the reverse side of the red tin.

THE Prince Albert tin, and in fact, every Prince Albert package, has a real message to you on its reverse side. You'll read — "Process Patented July 30th, 1907." That means that the United States Government has granted a patent on the process by which Prince Albert is made. And by which tongue bite and throat parch are cut out! Everywhere tobacco is sold you'll find Prince Albert awaiting you in toppy red bags, in tidy red tins, in handsome pound and half-pound tin humidor and in that clever crystal glass humidor, with sponge-moistener top, that keeps the tobacco in such fine condition — always!

ABOARD THE COUNTRESS

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1916, by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

The other day I saw a notice in a Liverpool paper to the effect that the courts had decided to rehear the case of the brig Countress. To the general reader these lines meant nothing. I do not suppose there are fifty people in all England today who can recall the case of the Countress, although the particulars were published far and wide and finally appeared in book form.

The Countress was a Bristol brig, owned in part and commanded by Captain Thomas, who was not only a thorough seaman, but a man of excellent heart. We were bound out to Georgetown, in British Guiana, with orders to call at Jamaica. This was my third voyage with Captain Thomas, the other two extending only to ports in Spain and return. I was an apprentice, or ship's boy, having nothing to do with the cabin, but living with the crew in the fore-castle and learning to be a sailor.

After we left port and got things shipshape I had opportunity to look over the crew and see what they were made of, and I was not long in making up my mind, boy as I was, that we had shipped a hard lot. There is always a leader in the fore-castle, and in those days it was the best fighter. Seaman-ship and education had to bow to brute strength. It wasn't three days before a big, burly fellow, who went by the name of Bristol Bob, but whose real name was Hyvans, had established himself as "boss." If he had had the good of the brig in view this would have been for her benefit, but it soon transpired that he had plans of his own.

Before reaching Jamaica the crew had been on the point of mutiny half a dozen times.

One afternoon—it was on the fourth day, I believe—I was aroused from my sleep by a conversation between Bob and a man named Jackson. They knew I was in the bunk, but believed me to be sleeping soundly.

"This is the plan as I have thought it out," Bob was saying. "After we have got the brig we will cruise to the eastward for a spell. The island I am after is not down on the chart. It is northeast of Trinidad and maybe 200 miles away from here."

"Don't Mizner know?" asked the other.

"Never heard of it, but this is his first trip this way."

The men presently went about their business, but I made the pretense of sleeping soundly until called to relieve the other watch. I was all in a tremble over what I had heard and had no idea of what course I should take. While it seemed proper for me to go to the captain or mate with my information, the reader must not overlook the difficulties in the way. I planned a dozen different ways to reach headquarters, and that I didn't put the captain on his guard was his own fault.

One night during our watch he called to me to bring something from his room. Bob and his friends were forward at the heel of the bowsprit, and as I came out of the cabin the mate was at the water cask. As I reached him I whispered:

"I should very much like to speak to you or the captain, sir."

"If you don't get forward I'll speak to you in a way you'll remember for a year to come!" he growled.

No doubt he imagined I had some complaint to make, but if he had permitted me to speak it might have prevented the tragedy which followed.

A few nights later Bristol Bob called the mate forward, and shortly afterward he came to me and said:

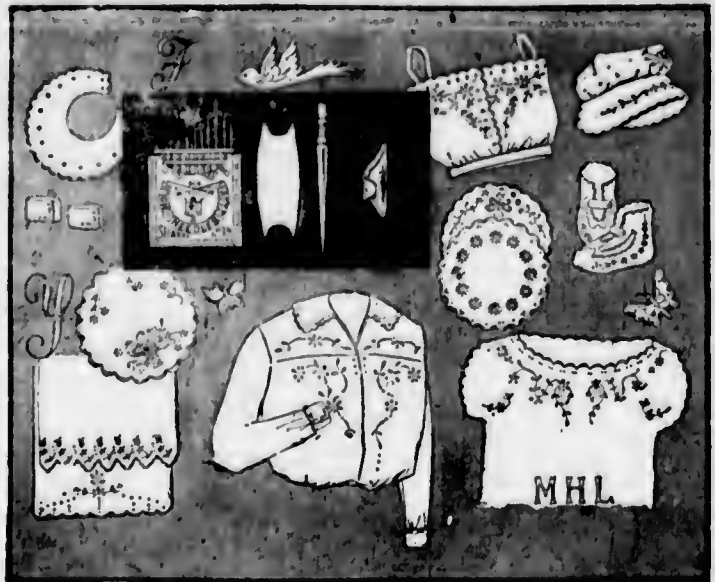

"Boy, run down and tell the captain that the first mate is ill."

I found the captain sound asleep, but as soon as I had told him what I had overheard in the fore-castle and what I suspected had just happened on deck it was wonderful how coolly he took the exciting news. As he reached for his pistol he ordered me to bolt the doors of the companion-way. The men stood at the entrance, and as they caught sight of me they stepped back, supposing the captain was following. I slammed and bolted the awning doors.

The fellows cursed and yelled, and, though we could hear them moving around the decks from that time until daylight, they made no attack. Finally we heard some one working with an ax on the cabin door, and the captain made ready to fire a bullet through it. By some carelessness the weapon was prematurely discharged, and he received the bullet in his throat, dying a few moments later. I was so overcome and frightened now that the captain was gone that I hid in his stateroom, and the mutineers no longer had any one to resist them.

The first thing I knew it was night, and it was so very quiet that I knew there could be no wind outside. I crept out into the cabin, but everything remained as I had left it. For two hours I listened for sounds from the deck, but heard nothing and finally fell asleep. I was aroused by men dropping into the cabin through the skylight. They belonged to the Scotch whaler Iruce, which was lying near by and had had us in view since daylight.

The mutineers had taken the long-boat and abandoned the brig, which was drifting at her own sweet will. And to this day no one of the men has ever been heard of. No doubt they met with some accident and all perished at sea.

We are authorized to announce Miss Jennie Higgins a candidate for County School Superintendent of Garrard county, subject to the action of the Democratic primary August 1917.

We are authorized to announce J. O. Bogie, as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for County Court Clerk, primary to be held August 1917.

We are authorized to announce Jephtha Onstott a candidate for the democratic nomination for County Court Clerk, subject to the action of the primary, August 1917.

We are authorized to announce E. B. Ray as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Assessor of Garrard county, subject to the action of the Primary, August, 1917.

Judge Charles A. Hardin who is Chairman of the Democratic committees of the state, and of the head of our party, in an open letter to the people states his position upon the question of submitting to a vote of the people whether we shall have state wide prohibition. It is the opinion of Judge Hardin that this vote of the people should be had at the earliest legal time which he states will be by the General Assembly of 1918. We fully agree with him upon the matter and think his letter a timely utterance. His letter is frank and makes plain his position and is not subject to any double construction.

Many good democrats who favor state wide prohibition have heretofore been in doubt when was the practical time for the party to fix the definite time for the submission, are now convinced that the step should be taken in order to eliminate a question that is threatening party harmony. Whenever a sufficient number of people of the state are so interested in any vital issue as to bring it to the general public notice and desire a disposition of the subject by popular vote, whether by constitutional amendment or by legislative enactment, we think they are entitled to exercise that right. We are of the opinion that the question of state wide prohibition occupies that position in the public minds of the people of the state at this time and it should be submitted by the General Assembly of 1918 to a vote.

It appears to us at this time that not only those who favor state wide prohibition want the question submitted but even those who oppose it; desire it in order to eliminate it as a political issue. It will no longer be a subject of contest. It is eliminated as a political issue. Judge Hardin's letter aids greatly in bringing the matter to an end. All candidates for legislative positions in Kentucky regardless of party will openly declare in favor of the submission of the question by the General Assembly of 1918. It is no longer an issue in the Democratic party or between the two parties.

BILLY SUNDAY TO RETIRE.

Billy Sunday, the evangelist, will retire after he holds a revival in Chicago in July of next year.

At the old Cub Park, in Chicago, near the diamond where he played professional base ball, Billy Sunday plans to close his career as an evangelist, Chicago ministers learned. A committee called on Charles Weighman, president of the Cubs. They proposed that a mammoth tabernacle be built on the old Cub field for a series of meetings to be held by Sunday next year to mark his retirement.

Goos With Farmers Home Journal.

The proprietors of the Farmers Home Journal are certainly to be congratulated upon securing the services of Mr. Robert Dunn, of Danville, and for several months on the editorial staff of the Danville Advocate, to succeed that splendid young man, Mr. Robert McDowell, who goes with the Woods-Johnson Company, stock brokers this month. Mr. Dunn is thoroughly qualified to fill the position he has accepted and we predict the Journal will grow with leaps and bounds under his management and that the many subscribers of this splendid paper will enjoy the work of his facile pen. Mr. Dunn will have his headquarters in Louisville, but will make many of the court days throughout the state and we hope the Lancaster court in particular.

TOBACCO HIGH

ON DANVILLE AND RICHMOND MARKET

Farmers, tobacco growers and stockholders in loose leaf warehouses, were in high glee over the prices reached on the floors of the Danville and Richmond markets last Monday. The floors were well filled with medium grades of tobacco and large crowds were on hand, so interested were they in seeing the market open. Over 90,000 pounds went over the breaks at Danville at the unusual average of $16.52. Several Garrard county crops were on the Danville market and as usual help to bring up the high average.

W. M. Onstott, of lower Garrard sold only one half of his crop that brought a general average of $28.37. J. J. and W. D. Walker sold the meanest end of their crop, amounting to about 4,000 pounds that brought the high average of $17.75. Of course the sellers of these crops were delighted as all were who had their tobacco on the market this week. The indications are that the prices will be maintained throughout the season. The lower grades are more than twice as high as last season, while the tops are bringing about the same as last year. Nothing sold for less than $9.00 on any of the floors this week in either Danville or Richmond. The markets in Lexington are just as good and all houses there are having good averages. Another season came in last Monday night and the result will be that the floors will be filled for several days to come insuring the grower a nice bunch of Christmas money before the holiday season is upon us.

HON. A. B. BROWN

Re-elected Chairman Of County Committee.

After considerable skirmishing and political maneuvering with the members elected at Saturday's precinct convention, in the interest of aspiring candidates for the coveted place, Hon. A. B. Brown was unanimously elected Chairman of the Democratic county committee, opposition having been completely routed.

It was known several days ago that there would be some kind of a contest over the organization in this county when Mr. Rodman Keenan, Clerk of the Court of Appeals made a visit to our county, presumably in the interest and with a view of selecting a committee in the interest of the Heckman-Haley faction and against the state administration and Senator James' interest. He did succeed in interesting some local politicians in his scheme, but their plans had little weight with those who attended these meetings on Saturday. The chairman is known to be a friend of Senator James and was chairman of Mr. Stanley's campaign when he ran for governor. He is also known to be a friend of Judge C. A. Arnold and is favorable to his renomination, which also was a factor in the contest for committeeman in last Saturday's elections. Mr. R. L. Elkin was elected secretary of the committee. The following were the committeemen elected: Loyd Bourne-Court House, Jas. Clark Jr.-West Park, W. H. Brown-East Park, J. H. Rubles-West Bryantsville, R. L. Barker-East Bryantsville, J. M. Ammon-Buckeye, Sim Wheeler-Walker School House, Ebb Scott-Union. There was no election held at Paint Lick.

Chairman Brown is known to be one of the truest and most faithful democrats in the county who has spent many years of loyal service for his party and the honor accorded him is worthily bestowed. The democrats of the county are fortunate in having such a good committee, to look after the interest of the party.

H. H. Towson, Salesman, Describes How He Caught the Popular "Tanlac Smile," and Relates Suffering He Endured Before He Discovered New Method of Relief.

It's here. Have you caught it yet? Nearly everybody, nearly everywhere, has it. It's taking, it's catching. It's easy to tell who has it. The symptoms are a breezy, cheery, happy, healthy, hearty, energetic, amiable look—and a smile.

It's the "Tanlac Smile." People who have been relieved of suffering and restored to the full enjoyment of health through taking Tanlac have it.

Tells How He Got It.

H. H. Towson, salesman, 2800 West Third street, Dayton, has the smile. Mr. Towson is a traveling salesman who "makes" Ohio and Kentucky territory.

"I wouldn't have tried Tanlac if I hadn't believed it would help me," Mr.

H. H. Towson, Salesman, Who Tells How He Got the Popular New "Tanlac Smile."

Towson said, "But I must say that the results I got from taking Tanlac beat anything I expected."

"For two years I suffered. I had a pain like heart-burn almost continually, and my throat would get hot as fire. I had to be mighty careful what I ate. I can tell you. Solid foods would cause pain, and the forming of gas would make me feel as if I had a lump in my stomach."

"To top all that I had headaches. I was miserable most of the time."

Hard of Many Helped.

"Well, to cut the story short, newspaper after newspaper in town after town had statements of how Tanlac had helped so many different people that I began to take it. I got my first bottle of Tanlac in Cleveland. Did it help me? I'll say it helped me."

"I can eat anything I want and not pay in pain afterwards for the pleasure of satisfying my appetite. And there is another thing I notice: I used to tire out quickly—now it doesn't matter how much I run on the go I finish strong. And the headaches—they are things of the past."

"Yes," concluded Mr. Towson, "I surely do recommend Tanlac because it is a great medicine."

Tanlac is being introduced in Lancaster at R. E. McRoberts.

Tanlac may be obtained in the nearby cities. Paint Lick, J. N. Metcalf; Bryantsville, Becker & Hallard; Little Hickman, Collier and Bruner; Berea, S. E. BITTER CONTEST IN LINCOLN CO. OVER COMMITTEE.

Shelton Sautley Defeated For Chairman.

Perhaps one of the most strenuously fought contest over party organization in this section of the State was in our neighboring county of Lincoln. Mr. Shelton Sautley of the Interior Journal, was an open candidate for Chairman of the county committee in the interest of the Heckman-Haley faction and was backed by Mr. Smith Baughman, candidate for the nomination for sheriff of Lincoln. While the contest is reported to have been a heated one it is reported that the victory over Sautley and his contingents, was easy and a very decided one.

JAMES YANTIS CURREY.

"For modes of faith, Let graceless zealots fight. His cannot be wrong Whose life is in the right."

The life of James Y. Currey, whose earthly career ended Monday night, at eleven o'clock, at his home in Louisville, was always in the right. He lived in the spirit of Christ's charity, as one who "loved all things, and therefore all things," and for four years an invalid, he endured without a murmur and always bore consolation to the sorrowing and words of cheer to the sick. He lived in the absolute faith that all things are possible to God, that prayer, watching and working, combined with self-innoculation are Gods means of accomplishing Christianization. His life was a living, breathing prayer for growth in grace, which he expressed in patience, meekness, love and good deeds.

"Jimie" Currey, as he was familiarly known to his family and friends, was born in Lancaster, August 27th, 1869, being the son of the late Theodore Currey and Artliss Yantis Currey. In 1902, he married Miss Annie Cornell of Louisville who survives him, together with four sisters, Mrs. J. C. Hemphill, of Louisville, Mrs. John Anderson, of Westington, D. C. Mrs. Fisher Gaines, of Danville, and Mrs. Curt Robinson. He also leaves two brothers, Mr. Will Currey, of Kansas, Mr. Theo Currey and a devoted mother to mourn his loss. Wednesday afternoon his body was laid to rest in Louisville, in beautiful Cave Hill Cemetery.

WHO WILL BE COLLECTOR?

Rumors are currently afloat that Mr. Shelton M. Sautley of Stanford, Hon. Rodman Keenan of Harrodsburg, now clerk of the Court of Appeals, and a Mr. Kavanaugh of Lawrenceburg, are all applicants for Collector of the district to succeed Judge John W. Hughes present incumbent, and it is further rumored that each of these gentlemen are pinning a hope to land upon some kind of a promise.

We have these facts only from current rumor, however. We wonder who has made these promises. Not claiming to be on the inside of the political situation, we are willing in this instance to back the present incumbent for four more years as the Collector of the district, barring death. What do you say?

BUY RED CROSS SEALS.

The Red Cross Christmas Seals are for use. They not only make a package or letter look festive with the gay Santa Claus and the seasonable greetings but wherever and whenever a RED CROSS CHRISTMAS SEAL is seen one knows there is interest taken in and a fight being made against the dreaded disease of tuberculosis. It is a small amount of money that helps a long way, so put seals on all your letters from now until after Christmas and New Year, showing that you believe in the winning fight.

The Ear-Marks of a Good Feed Grinder

You will find every one of them on all INTERNATIONAL FEED GRINDERS

A strong steel stand prevents wobbling.
Two lag screws hold the machine firmly in position.
The grinding plates are self-aligning and therefore grind evenly.
A spring tension on the grinding plates insures even grinding.
A plate shifter lever at the end of the shaft is a safeguard against breakage and makes it a simple matter to clean the plates.

An International feed grinder and an I.H.C. oil engine make an ideal combination. The engine will furnish convenient power for operating the feed grinder, and is especially adaptable for this purpose on account of the variation of the power required in proportion to the kind of grain being ground.

International feed grinders are made in the following types and sizes to meet all requirements:

Type B, 6, 8, and 10-inch—grinds corn on the cob
Type C, 6 and 8-inch—grinds small grains and shelled corn
Type D, 8 and 10-inch—grinds corn in the husk, alfalfa and Kaffir corn in the head

There are other features which you can see for yourself if you will drop in for a demonstration the next time you are in town.

NEVIUS-HARNED.

On last Wednesday afternoon at 5:30 at home of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse D. Wearren, Miss LaVerne Nevius, of Lancaster and Arch Hill Harned, of near Lebanon Junction, were united in marriage by Rev. D. M. Walker, pastor of the Christian church. The bride is the only daughter of Mr. Joseph Nevius, of Lancaster, and a granddaughter of Mrs. Martha Nevius of this city, and is a very pretty and accomplished young lady and has a host of friends she has won by her lovely disposition. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Harned and a prominent farmer, of his community. Immediately after the ceremony they left for Louisville, where they spent several days, returning to their home near Lebanon Junction. Mr. F. T. Bryant, of Lebanon Junction accompanied Mr. Harned to this city.—Stanford Cor.

INTERESTING PROGRAM At Christian Church Sunday.

Very interesting reports were read at the Christian church last Sunday when the different missionary societies observed their annual W. B. M. day at Christian church. Mrs. J. R. Mount gave the report of the C. W. B. M. women, stating that they were apportioned by the board $215, but exceeded that by $50.

Mrs. Guy Davidson read the report of the Circle Girls. They have 28 members, each member taking the Missionary Tidings. These energetic young women support a native missionary in Iowa, which together with the other money raised by them amounted to $216. There are 51 children in the Junior work and their total amount was $30.20.

Black Diamonds.
Genuine black diamonds, although considerably more valuable than the ordinary white diamond, are not used for ornament, having an appearance more attractive than a bit of stone or fragment of coal. They are of dark gray, brownish, or black color, and opaque, without crystalline form. They are somewhat harder than the crystal or gem diamond, being, in fact, about the hardest substance known and are found in irregular pieces, ranging in size from one-half to 500 carats.

First Milling Process.
The conversion of wheat into flour was one of the earliest developments of civilization, and even the primitive races in the dawn of history submitted the grain to a course resembling between stones. Perhaps the oldest flour "mills" in existence are the rude stone found among the remains of the ancient lake dwellings in Switzerland. By a mortar and pestle arrangement the wheat was reduced to a coarse meal. Crude as this method was, it contained the germ of the modern flour mill.

Thoughtful Bobbie.
When Bobbie went to see his grandmother he was much interested in whatever went on in the kitchen. One morning she said to him: "I'm going to make you a nice little pie in a suncer, Bobbie, all for yourself. Don't you think I'm pretty good to take so much trouble?" Bobbie thought about it a moment. "Grandma," he said, "mamma told me not to be a bother, and if it's going to be any trouble you can just as well make my pie the regular size."

We have a good stable with box stalls on the ground floor and every attention will be given you and your teams. For any information Telephone 3331, at our expense.

LIVE STOCK NOTES.

With the increased price of horses more attention is being paid to the care of the growing colts.
When pigs should be weaned should be determined as much as how they are eating and growing as upon their age.
A sheep will take cold in a draft in spite of its fleece of warm wool.
Be sure that the colts are coming into winter quarters fat and heavy.
Profitable hog raising is best attained by providing for two litters a year.
There must be no draft of cold air in the sheep barn, but the ventilation must be good. Pure air is a necessity to the health of a flock.

SHEEP THRIVE IN OPEN SHEDS IN WINTER

Sheep sheds may combine efficiency and economy, says the American Agriculturist. The Pennsylvania state college has demonstrated that sheep wintered in an open shed having a southern exposure, free from drafts and affording a dry bed, are in better physical condition than those wintered in a warm, ill ventilated barn basement. During the lambing season, of course, warmer quarters are necessary. If wea may then be removed to warmer quarters and later replaced in the shed.

The Shropshire sheep is one of the Down breeds known in this country as "mildew wool." There are more Shropshires here than any other of the Down breeds. The wool is of good quality, but they are classed as mutton sheep. The lambs are hardy and are easily fattened. The animal shown is a Shropshire wether.

After lambs are three days old they will not suffer in the open sheds, even during zero weather.

The shed used to house experimental ewes and lambs at the Pennsylvania station adjoins the south side of a hay shed. The sheep shed is 30 by 80 feet and cost $200. Its capacity is 100 mature sheep. It was built of hemlock lumber over a superstructure of oak posts. The roof and west end were covered with tar paper. An alley six feet wide runs the full length of the inner side of the shed. The hay shed attached affords a place for storage of feed and lambing pens.

The shed is divided into seven pens for experimental purposes. Three lots instead of seven would probably be more desirable under average farm conditions. Under such conditions also breeding sheep in winter quarters should be divided into groups with reference to age and condition. Breeding sheep should be separated from fattening sheep. An exercise yard thirty-two feet wide adjoins each pen. These are well drained and dry.

BREEDING YOUNG SOWS.

Practice Cranian a Tendency to Produce Small Litters.

The earliest time that young sows should be bred is when they are seven or eight months old. The proper age depends chiefly upon their development, says Ray Gatewood, instructor in animal husbandry in the Kansas State Agricultural college.

It has been found that the continued practice of breeding sows when they are too young creates a tendency toward small litters. Breeding too early will also cause a check in the development of the sow.

The period of gestation in swine is 112 to 114 days, which allows the raising of two litters each year. This is advocated under ordinary conditions, but in the raising of young pigs for the show ring one litter a year is better.

Cause of Rickets in Pigs.

The chief cause of rickets is lack of exercise. Overfeeding upon corn is a common contributive cause. Corn is a heat and fat former, but does not build up strong bones. Make the hogs take abundant exercise every day throughout the year, and feed mixed ration. Including 10 per cent of digester tankage in the slop, alfalfa hay in winter and green rape, clover and alfalfa in summer. Allow free access to slacked lime, wood ashes and wood charcoal. Allow salt once a week.—Farm Journal.

Wounds on Horses.

An excellent application for surface wounds and one that agrees with the flesh of horses is mutton tallow. Its tendency is to heal when well smeared with carbolic acid or even alone. Cleanse deep sores daily with warm water and carbolic soap.

Colds Coughs Catarrh

A trinity of evils, closely allied, that afflict most people, and which follow one on the other, in the order named, until the last one is spread through the system, leading to many evils. But their course can be checked.

PERUNA CONQUERS

It is of great value when used promptly for a cold, usually checking it and overcoming it in a few days.

Ample evidence has proved that it is even of more value in overcoming chronic catarrh, dispelling the inflammatory conditions, enabling the diseased membranes to perform their natural functions, and toning up the entire system.

The experience of thousands is a safe guide to what it may be expected to do for you.

Liquid or tablets—both tested by the public and approved.

BETTY'S LIFE SAVED BY USE OF RED CROSS SEALS

She Was Taught How to Care For Herself After Her Mother Had Died.
"She was real pretty, and so full of fun that the dimples were always showing in her round, red cheeks."
The visiting nurse of the Anti-Tuberculosis Society was talking. "Her eyes were big and brown and outlined with dark hair curled naturally in little ringlets over her forehead and ears.
She was just eighteen when we first met her and so neat and attractive that one would think she belonged to the well-to-do class of working people, but when we followed her to her home
one day we confronted startling facts.
"The red in her cheeks was the flush of unnatural inward fever, the high spirits were a pitiful antidote to pit-iless conditions, and the big brown eyes saw only aqualor when they were not fixed upon a typewriting machine or closed persistently to any view but an imaginary bright one.
"The room we entered was a general living space, used also as an eating, cooking and sleeping apartment.
There was but one bed, and Betty had to sleep in it with her mother, who was too weak to sit up. An open cupboard and where it would be conveniently near the bed, which placed it by the stove, where their food was cooked. The mother, who was suffering in an advanced stage of tuberculosis, did not like cold air, and her querulous demands caused Betty to keep the door and windows closed.
"Well," said cheerful Betty, with a laugh, "that isn't so bad as not having any windows or doors to close, is it? Things might be worse."
"Infinitely worse," said I. "You might even take a notion to stuff the windows and doors with rags to cut out what oxygen comes in through the cracks."
"Red Cross Christmas Seals, with their cheery message of hope, gave Betty a chance to get well after her mother died. Is it worth while to save the Betty? Buy your share today."

SHADE TREES AND SHRUBS

Advice upon what to do for shade trees and shrubs during November sent by the American Forestry association to its members is as follows.
First.—Prune trees and remove the dead branches.
Second.—Do whatever fall spraying may be necessary to overcome sucking or scale insects.
Third.—Prepare a compost of leaf mold in a mixture with manure and soil. This compost will prove of great value in all planting and gardening work on your premises as well as in rejuvenating impoverished specimen trees.
Fourth.—Prune the roots of the trees which are to be moved during the winter. Cut around the base of the tree and fill the trenches with straw.
Fifth.—In especially exposed places protect the rhododendrons and other tender plants and shrubs with evergreen boughs. Do this only where the cold and exposure make it absolutely necessary.

Felt He Came Second.
One day I took my little boy over in his grandmother's, and while we were there he got into mischief, so his grandmother slipped his hands and he came to me crying, and said his grandmother had slapped him. I being busy at the time, just told him to go away and not bother me, that his grandmother would not slap him if he did not deserve it. Later on I asked him what he did that his grandmother slapped him, and he said: "Oh, it is no use telling you, you love your mother anyhow."—Chicago Tribune.

About the Planets.
The albedo or reflecting power of the planets is believed to give a hint as to their physical condition. In a table prepared by Prof. H. N. Russell, the albedo of the moon is given as 0.07; Mercury, 0.06; Venus, 0.59;
Mars, 0.15; Jupiter, 0.51; Saturn, 0.61; Uranus, 0.61, and Neptune, 0.73. The earth's albedo, measured from the earthshine on the moon, has been placed as high as 0.80, though a new calculation indicates 0.40. The four large planets have high albedo on account of their cloud-laden atmospheres;
that of Mercury, with practically no atmosphere, is low.

Johany Was Curious.
As a great privilege, John was taken to church to see his baby cousin baptized. Just as the minister had the water all ready and there was a hush in the congregation, John leaned toward his mother and asked in a low audible stage whisper, "Hot or cold?"

"Coats to Newcastle."
"To carry coats to Newcastle" means to do something that is superfluous, Newcastle being a great coal field, carrying coats there would be a type of unnecessary action. The French have a saying "to carry water to the river" for the same thing, and there are several Latin equivalents.

When Clock Gets Out of Order.
If your clock gets out of order, try lubricating the works by the fumes from a piece of wadding soaked in paraffin. Set the wadding inside the case under the works; unless the works are actually out of order the fumes will act on the machinery. It is quite a simple but a tried remedy.

Mystery of Chimney Swift.
The chimney swift furnishes one of the unsolved problems of bird life. The flocks drift slowly south until on the northern coast of the Gulf of Mexico
they become an innumerable host.
Then they disappear and for five months their hiding place is a mystery.

The Apartment Dweller.
The apartment dweller is well warmed, lives near his business and his amusements, is close to humankind and is relieved from the responsibility of a house and from the inconvenience of outdoor duties involved in a distached dwelling. To get all these benefits the apartment dweller is asked to surrender two desirable things, namely, inside room and outside air.—Mil-

Tributes to the Departed.
Obituary notices in Australian papers are often, Lady Moore tells us, accompanied by poetic tributes to the departed. These tributes, sometimes tumble into awkwardness, but she quotes as champion in that way a poor tribute in these words: "Mrs.

eighty-five. For some months she had been in failing health, but during the last few days she approached the

FIGHTING IN THE AIR

By ALAN HINSDALE

There is nothing like gentle for taking risks. A boy under fifteen reads of adventure and desires to be in it.
After fifteen up to, say, twenty-five
he gets in it if the opportunity occurs.
And it is that period in his life when he is most fitted for hazardous enterprises. During the war between the states both Union and Confederate armies were full of youngsters under the minimum age that was fixed by law for enlistment.

But it has been reserved for the twentieth century to excel all others in furnishing a tempting field for daring exploits. What could be more thrilling than fighting far up in the air? The great European war furnishes the scene of daring in battle.
It would seem enough for one to risk
his life up in the clouds with nothing but thin air between him and the earth, but to attack another airship there can only be set down to the quintessence of recklessness.

Though an American, I could not resist this kind of warfare and early in the struggle went to England to study and practice aviation. I was seventeen when I went abroad, but nineteen before I was admitted into the corps of high fliers and sent to the front.

My aeroplane was one of the smaller kind, and I managed it alone. My do-ties were simply to obtain information by rising high enough to look down on the enemy's works. I also directed gun fire. Of course I was constantly a target for shots from the earth, but I could keep out of range—that is, if I chose. But if I did not fly near enough to the enemy I could distinguish nothing. At first when a shell came anywhere near me I was frightened, but familiarity breeds contempt, and I soon became familiar with missiles.

One day I received an order to cross
the German line and spy out the location of a battery that was demolishing works our boys were constructing as fast as they were built. I went up about 800 feet, then made for a point directly above the place from which the shells seemed to emanate.

I was seen by the enemy, and no doubt my errand was suspected, for presently I saw what looked like a bird—about a bird's size at the distance—rise from the rear of the most active gun and keep mounting, evidently with the design of getting above me. I, too, climbed, for I did not propose that my enemy should have an additional advantage in dropping bombs on me.

It was hard to realize that the little flier with stretched wings seemingly no larger than a swallow might mean death to me. I had been something of a sportsman and was familiar with birds. It seemed to me that this one might light on a branch and pour forth a song.

He did not light on a branch, but in time he poured forth a song. It was not the song of a bird; it was the song of a bullet.

But this was not yet.
The German and I jockeyed for position, I endeavoring to get near enough to the battery I was ordered to spy on as well as to keep him from gaining the advantage of me. I had one eye on the battery, the other on the aviator. I was so bent on fixing his location that I gave him the whiphand of me in this—if I came down I would do so on enemy's ground, while he would fall among his own comrades.

I had located certain objects which would enable me to describe the position of the battery to our gunners when I saw Mr. German endeavoring to circle around to my rear. Having secured what I had come for, I turned and started for home. But a chase is a disadvantageous position for the pursued. The other fellow can fire at his back, and he can't fire at all unless he twists himself around, which is difficult and not conducive to a true aim.

I was obliged to go about, as a sailor
on the water would say, and fight.
On entering upon this my first contest up in the air it may be wondered that I was not paralyzed by the dreadful fall I would make if my machine were disabled. I did not think of it, and the reason I did not think of it was that I hadn't time. In other words, I was so absorbed in the coming struggle that there was no place in my mind for anything else.

As I turned, exposing my flank for a few moments, I saw my enemy raise his piece to fire. A bullet sang by my head, I was more concerned for my ship than for my head, which was natural, for if my head were pierced I would go down without consciousness, but if my ship were wrecked I would experience the awful fall. Fortunately neither my head nor my ship was touched.

Before my enemy could get another shot at me he got one from me. I refrained from aiming at him, but drew a bead on where I believed his engine to be. I missed the engine, but I must have hit his gas tank. At any rate, I heard a report and saw that I had disabled him.

His attention being fixed on the condition of his machine, I devoted myself to flight. Presently turning, I saw his machine staggering to earth, its fall being retained only by its wings.
But I doubted if even this would save his life.

I reported the position of the battery, and it was silenced. But where one battery was silenced a dozen more sprang up.

THE MANURE HEAP.

The manure heap is a scene of bacterial activities. When it lies very long the nitrogen is transformed into ammonia and escapes. When it escapes it is gone forever. Some of the manure changes into nitrates, and these are washed away and lost. If the manure heap is uncovered. Nitrates are soluble, and when they are washed away the farm loses all their value. A part of the nitrates are attacked by bacteria and become nitrogen gas.

FORCING ASPARAGUS.

Great Demand For This Crop When Marketed Out of Season.

Nearly everybody enjoys asparagus. From early March until August asparagus may now be found in many of the best markets, says T. H. Gurekol in the Farm and Fireside. It is usually forced out of its regular season so as to make this vegetable available from the beginning of December through the entire winter. But this product of the gardener's skill is naturally quite expensive. The demand for this crop when marketed out of season is becoming greater, and the returns to the enterprising grower are excellent.

I have found that the forcing may be done in any place where a temperature of 55 to 60 degrees may be maintained either in hotbed, pit, greenhouse or by any contrived plan where the temperature can be kept at the desired uniform degree. I use the roots from four or five year old plants for forcing, digging the roots late in the fall, with as much dirt adhering to the roots and crowns as possible. These roots are put in a cool cellar or any place where the temperature is but little above freezing. When thus stored the roots are covered with sand and soil to prevent their drying out and are kept in this way until wanted for forcing.

Forcing asparagus in hotbeds or other substitute for a greenhouse is rather costly, and there is much less trouble in securing a paying crop in the greenhouse.

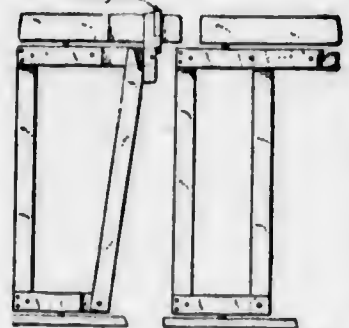

Where a greenhouse is used no better use of the space under the benches can be made than for forcing asparagus. The floor under the benches in my greenhouse is soil. I dig a pit about a foot deep and scatter four inches of good soil over the bottom, then set the clumps of asparagus roots close together, scatter a few inches of dry mellow soil between and over clumps and then water it thoroughly. I blanket the shoots by shutting off the light by use of burlap hung along the sides of the benches. There is now a tendency among the best judges of asparagus to prefer the unleached asparagus or that which is only partly bleached.

I also use boards placed against the posts to construct trenches in which the asparagus can be forced in addition to the trenches built under the benches.

The first ten days after setting the roots should be kept rather cool—say at a temperature of 45 to 50 degrees—then change to 55 to 60 degrees, or even slightly higher in the daytime will be no detriment. Too heavy watering may do more harm than good. At least three or four weeks are required to develop the asparagus to cutting size, after which several cuttings may be made during a period of eight to ten weeks. In order to secure a succession of cutting throughout the winter, I plant reserve roots every three or four weeks after the first planting. Gardeners can easily try out this plan of forcing asparagus out of season and thus learn just what the returns will be for them in their own particular market.

Simple Stanchion.

This stanchion is opened by hand, but is closed automatically. When the cow puts her head between the bars she forces the free bar out. This tips the weighted lever, which in falling closes and locks the stanchion.

Fertilizer Pays Big Dividends.

Complete returns show an increase of 1,000 pounds of hay per acre on the plot fertilized with acid phosphate on the Wagon farm over the unfertilized plot. Two hundred pounds were applied per acre at a cost of $1.50. The raw rock phosphate plot returned 1,040 pounds more hay per acre than the check plot. An application of 1,000 pounds per acre was applied at a cost of $1.50 per acre. The acid phosphate plot returned $3.15 for each dollar invested, and the raw rock plot returned $1.39 for each dollar invested. Hay was rated at $12 per ton.—G. E. Storing Onions.

Onions should be stored in a cool, dry place. They are best put on shelves rather than over six or eight inches deep. Do not allow them to freeze.

RED CROSS SEAL FIGURES.

325,000,000 Holiday Stickers Already Distributed in United States.

Few people have any conception of the magnitude of the Red Cross Christmas Seal Campaign. Here are a few figures that will show what a gigantic movement this is. Already 325,000,000 Seals have been printed and practically that entire number distributed to agents in every state and territory of the Union from Alaska to the Canal Zone, from Porto Rico to Hawaii, and even in the far-off Philippines. Advertising circulars, posters, cards, etc., to the number of several millions, have also been distributed. Not less than 1,000,000 personal letters asking people to buy Seals have been sent out. It is estimated that the army of workers, nearly all of whom are volunteers, engaged in selling the Seals numbers well over 500,000. The advertising and publicity devoted to the campaign amounts to several hundred thousand dollars. Every effort is being put forth to sell 100,000,000 Seals, or only one for every man, woman and child in the United States. This will mean $1,000,000 for the anti-tuberculosis campaign in the United States. Over 1,500 anti-tuberculosis associations of the country derive their support from Red Cross Seals.

RESTORED TO HEALTH BY RED CROSS SEALS

Holiday Messengers Bring Happiness to Homes Burdened With Tuberculosis.

Deserted by her husband, suffering from tuberculosis in a double form and supporting herself and young boy by her needle, the Anti-Tuberculosis Association in a Western city found an unfortunate consumptive, living in one room with two little beds—one for herself and one for her boy. Everything was clean; but, oh, so poor!

That was a year ago.

This morning she took a train for the state sanatorium, where she will have a chance to get well, while her boy is being cared for by the Anti-Tuberculosis Association with funds derived from the Red Cross Seal Sale.

Here is the story of another family where happiness and health were brought through the medium of Red Cross Seals:

Tuberculosis had made heavy demands upon the family, and the income had entirely stopped for several months. It was inevitable that they should run into debt for grocery bills as well as the rent. With such worry, anxiety and depression it is not always easy to find a silver lining in the clouds. The condition was recognized, however, by the visiting nurse, and the sick father was sent to a hospital, and proper care was provided for the others. Relief was also obtained, and now both rent bills and grocery bills are being gradually lessened each week. Each member of the family has had nursing care for some ailment or other.

Every Red Cross Seal sold helps to better conditions like these.

MADE MONEY WITH SHEEP.

Experience of a Kansas Farmer in Handling a Flock of Ewes.

We have from time to time called attention to the opportunities for profit in handling a few sheep on the farm, says the Kansas Farmer. A few farmers are seizing this opportunity. We were much interested in the story told us by a recent visitor from Brown county. This man bought a single

Bill Had Learned Something.
"I understand old man Strupkina was very much opposed to his daughter marrying Bill Smith; called Bill a fool, and all that sort of thing. 'That's very true, and before he had been married six months Bill admitted the old man was right.'"

Surely Absent-Minded.
Editor—"Is it true, my dear, that your husband is very absent-minded?" Mrs. Newby—"Yes. We've been married six months, and many an evening at eleven he gets up, takes me by the hand, tells me what a delightful time he has had, and would leave if I didn't remind him."—Boston Transcript.

Shotguns and Rifles.
When a shotgun or rifle is cleaned, a cork of proper size should be inserted in the end of the barrel. By preventing the entrance of damp this will preserve its value as well as its usefulness. This practice is not followed to the same extent as it should be even among those who take special pride in firearms. It is said that a lot of camphor inserted in the barrel will also aid in preventing the accumulation of rust.

The Cheviot is one of the English Down breeds and is a dual purpose sheep—that is, it is grown for both mutton and wool. It is good in both products, its wool being fairly dense, while as a mutton animal it ranks among the best. The sheep pictured is a Cheviot wether.

deck car of western ewes last fall, paying $3.50 a hundred for them. They were not very good ewes, many of them being old. He bred them to good Hampshire rams and they dropped him an average of one lamb to each ewe. On Aug. 1 he sold on the Kansas City market 180 lambs at 11 cents a pound, the top price of the season. They had run on bluegrass pasture and had been fed some grain in "creeps."

Our visitor told us of one of his neighbors who produced and sold the finest lambs seen on the market this season. This man bought ewes of a somewhat better quality. They sheared an average of nine pounds of wool to the ewe, and it sold at home for 29 cents a pound. They began lambing in March, and on July 1 a hundred head averaging seventy-two pounds in weight were sold for $10.65 a hundred and were pronounced by Kansas City buyers to be the best lambs that had come in.

These lambs had been fed some bran and oats in creeps, and for the last month shelled corn. The bunch of 125 head were given a bushel of corn morning and night. There are some fine points in feeding grain to lambs. This man made a cutting chute, and his little girls cut out the lambs from the ewes at feeding time. It took about fifteen minutes to do this.

The grain was fed in troughs having lids and was put in before the lambs were turned into the yard. The lids were not raised until the lambs were all in. If this is not done some of the lambs will get more than they should and be "off feed" for a few days. The care used in handling these lambs was largely responsible for the results secured. Nothing difficult was done, however. It was simply a matter of paying attention to little details.
